TAKING IN THE SIGHTS AT SWEET PEA

PROTECT AND SERVE

SBA officials talk local growth, jobs at Bozeman stop

The U.S. Small Business Administration's regional administrator was in town Friday to discuss the impact of the SBA and other federal programs.

White and Prospera Program Director Jason Markey said that the SBA has $47 million in grants, loans and matching funds the nonprofit lends to businesses and that the funds are available to Montana businesses.

The pair also cited recent infrastructure improvements, such as Bozeman Yellowstone International Airport's addition of direct flights to London and the soon-to-be-completed remodeled terminal project, as possible steps toward continued economic growth.

"These sheep have to have connectivity," Hookstad said.

SBA officials talk local growth, jobs at Bozeman stop

The U.S. Small Business Administration's regional administrator was in town Friday to discuss the impact of the SBA and other federal programs.

White and Prospera Program Director Jason Markey said that the SBA has $47 million in grants, loans and matching funds the nonprofit lends to businesses and that the funds are available to Montana businesses.

The pair also cited recent infrastructure improvements, such as Bozeman Yellowstone International Airport's addition of direct flights to London and the soon-to-be-completed remodeled terminal project, as possible steps toward continued economic growth.

"These sheep have to have connectivity," Hookstad said.